

The Knowledge You Need for the Life You Want

The University of Michigan-Flint

With a longstanding commitment to its community, the University of Michigan-Flint continues to shape Flint's future, and its own, in exciting ways. Working over the years to enhance and broaden the city's cultural, intellectual and economic resources, UM-Flint honors this partnership as an integral part of its identity.

Committed to the highest standards of teaching, learning, scholarship and creative endeavors, the University of Michigan-Flint is proud to be one of

Laying a Path To Future Success

• Arts and Sciences –

Undergraduate and graduate programs in biochemistry, international studies, women's and gender studies, public administration, bilingual administration, administration of non-profit agencies, criminal justice administration; pre-professional programs in law, medicine, veterinary medicine, dentistry and more

• Health Professions and Studies

– B.S. in Administration of Services to the Aged, Environmental Health, Health Care Administration, Health Education, Medical Technology, Nursing, Radiation Therapy; M.S. in Anesthesia and Health Education, Nursing; Doctor of Physical Therapy

• School of Management –

B.B.A. in General Business, Accounting, Finance, Marketing, Operations Management, Organizational Behavior and Human Resources Management; MBA

• School of Education and Human Services –

Teacher certification, B.S. degrees in Elementary Education; Bachelor's degree in Social Work; M.A. in Education

three campuses of the University of Michigan family. Since 1956, students at the Flint campus have benefited from an association with the University of Michigan while enjoying the many advantages of a smaller institution. Flint's beautiful, bustling campus in the center of downtown is home to outstanding faculty, world-class research, and some of the most technologically sophisticated classrooms in the midwest, distinctions that combine powerfully to prepare future leaders and effect positive change.

Nearly 50 Years of Academic Success in a Supportive Environment

UM-Flint has remained committed to higher learning for nearly 50 years. The University offers more than 60 undergraduate and nine graduate degree programs that combine traditional liberal arts with outstanding career preparation. Students enjoy the advantages of top-notch faculty and student-faculty ratios of 15:1, the cornerstones of UM-Flint's highly personalized, dynamic learning environment.

The University's strong student-support network comprises a number of programs designed to bolster academic performance, develop leadership skills and bring individual rewards. These are just a few of the many reasons UM-Flint remains one of the region's best tuition values, and scores well above the national average in student satisfaction.

Adventures of the Mind: The Honors Scholar Program

Since its founding in 1979, the Honors Scholar Program has offered qualified students the opportunity to enhance their education in the challenging and rewarding atmosphere of small, enriched core classes with close faculty guidance and one-on-one learning and research partnerships with specialists in their field. The highlight of this program is the off-campus study project, in which students are funded to conduct research and gain professional experience away from the Flint campus. Past scholars have conducted projects in the United States, Scotland, England, Japan, and in many other countries around the world.

Taking part in this unique program sets UM-Flint students apart. Whether applying to graduate school or seeking employment following graduation, honors scholars definitely have an edge. In fact, 100 percent of Honors Scholar Program students who apply to medical school are accepted. With a record of achievement such as this, the possibilities are immeasurable.

The University of Michigan-Flint

810-762-3300

www.umflint.edu